Dear Sir

I watched the playback yesterday afternoon in which you conducted an interview with Jeff Danziger, and one(?) Ranan Lurie, political cartoonists. You'll have to forgive me in saying, 'you were had' by full time socialist-line sorcerer and propagandist, Lurie. If not, you were too timid in allowing him to expound and rebut as well as rebuke all viewpoints from your guest, Danzyger and listeners. If you had prior knowledge of Lurie it behooved C-Span II to have an opposite number against the enigma, Lurie; Danzyger was too polite.

The basis for American legitimacy and believability toward Lurie was that his son attended West Point. He was in agony, it seemed, to admit from whence he came. Strange, too, that a gifted cartoonist sets up shop in the U.S. after the 1967 war (24 year ago marking the war and his U.S. entry, if I heard him correctly). Still a good Israeli?

Still a good soldier, of sorts?

This Israeli character, once removed, had all the credentials one seeks in a "mole". The Jonathan Pollard case brought out the degree to which Israeli agents have penetrated American society - not alone government bureaus. You'll admit mind control is a worthy helpmate to influence

Though he never alluded to his ethnic background, he certainly had no compunction about the Zionist/Israeli party line towards middle-East problems and in particular about Iraq and the Hitler incarnate, Saddam Hussein. (Sic)

You'll note the one caller who alluded to Israeli nuclear weapons and chemistry was quickly shunted to something away from the accusative disposition. Hunie was a quite gifted propagandist up against two Americans wearing sanitary gloves. We'll never learn!

As for his worldwide endeavor from New York's Trump Tower, it smelled of "money stakes". I shudder to imagine how many minds he has shaped and the influence he wields via his talent and access. You'll note his bent to know the world movers. I'm sure his trip down these roads are more than eye escapades - though he shows plenty of that. His defense of maggie Thatcher (mid-East hawk) was certainly more than an expression of opinion but rather an endorsement of another hawk having greater stature than his pictorial pleadings or a Kissinger's.

Enough said, now you might chalk me up as anti-Semitic. I suppose I am if being opposed to Zionism qualifies. Balfour's Declaration and ultimate fruition will be a never ending mid-East trauma. The U.S. protection of Israel — or should I say our subsidiary — shall evermore weaken our mid-East standing. The elimination of Hussein and Iraq's war power is not the solution it is merely the vehicle to prolong Jewish agony in a sea of Arabs.

I would suggest in the future that propagandists play on a level field. Your choice of Danziger played into Lurie's hands. Your laziness, too, was unfair to the American public. A more prolific profile of Lurie was awaiting.

Chalk up a -0- for poor planning, and a kinder gentler Brian Lamb — a lamb led to Lurie's mechanism of thought control

Sincerely
