Suggestion: If this is not already the case, please consider carrying the original-language audio (for translated and interpreted programming) in addition to the English language audio. ~~Cable~~ Cable-and similar-service providers could carry this ~~audio~~ additional audio as SAP, which most recently-produced televisions can access. Viewers would then have the choice of ~~either~~ hearing either the translated/interpreted audio or the original speaker. (On many receivers, the viewer can also listen to both—one ~~on~~ on left, the other right.) I would much prefer to hear both audio ~~prog~~ channels for the Moscow evening news. Thank you.
