Dear Leo:

Terminally Mr.

I applaud you on much of your programming. Today, for instance, you have Dana Priest of the Washington Post who is both interesting and knowledgeable.

By and large your congressmen and senators are lousy - I can predict ahead of time everyone of their answers - They will be strictly factless and phrased to offend to as few people as possible - If I could ever get through on the phone (I have an old-fashioned dial system) I would give them up a bit by telling them what borks they are -

I would like for you to have more lunatic scholars (pundits) even though they often make me angry. At least they often make for a lively program and cause me to do some of my own thinking.

Not even your star "Dignity Lamb" is able to make a dull, boring person interesting.

I continue to be a viewer because you are still the best channel and I detest commercial interruptions.

Sincerely yours,
[REDACTED]
