

cc: S. trahern ✓
1741-90

May 4, 1990

MAY 08 REC'D

Dear Mr. Lamb

Ballwin, MO 63021

JUN 06 AMST

On last Monday's show, you asked a gentleman from New York to send you a list of ten liberals to have on that Monday time slot. May I be so bold as to send you my list? (Except I can't think of ten - being liberal is not terribly fashionable these days) Anyway, here's my short list: Hodding Carter, Wall Street Journal, Lewis Lapham, Harper's, David Beers, with Mother Jones, Barbara Ehrenreich - Harper's and various publications, Molly Ivins with a Houston paper and Richard Cohen, Washington Post Writers Group. There are others that have been on the program that I wouldn't mind seeing again - especially Christopher Hitchens and Christopher Matthews, Jefferson Morley and David Corn. Maybe you can do "an American Profile" of Daniel Patrick Moynihan - he's a great liberal, ~~editor~~ a real intellectual.

Next time you do newspapers, please look at Margaret Wolf Frievoegel and William Frievoegel of the St Louis Post Dispatch. They have a unique job-sharing arrangement in Washington. She mostly does women - family - legal issues and he does mostly legal, with an emphasis on the Supreme Court. They share a bureau job, and have recently won an award. Thanks for C-Span!

