Dear Brian:

Congratulations on your American Writers project. It's an inspiring and ambitious adventure — with shrewd choices, such as Russell Kirk. The village of Mecosta received a higher post office designation because he got so much mail there!

I pitched a piece about the project to the Chicago Tribune "Books" section and hope it might happen.

Notre Dame's Washington program is flourishing, and we plan to introduce regular courses on communications and political life next year.

Over and over, you hear C-SPAN's a national treasure. It certainly is, and folks in the heartland are mighty grateful.

Every best wish,
