Dear Mr. Lamb,

For the past few years, I have grown increasingly tired of your biased reporting on the issue of gun control. You say that handgun purchase waiting periods will reduce crime, including "crimes of passion." You seem to have left out the fact that 5 out of 6 criminals obtain their weapons from illegal sources, not from legitimate gun stores. You also left out the fact that most crimes of passion occur between the hours of 10 p.m. and 3 a.m. when no gun store is open. You also say that "assault rifles" should be banned. First of all, what is an assault rifle? How can you ban something that has no specific definition? Do not confuse semi-automatic rifles with full-automatic rifles. They are two very different types of rifles, regardless of their appearance. Gun control will not reduce violent crime, only reforms in our criminal justice system will (more prison space and better rehabilitation). I ask that in the future you please portray gun owners with all due unbiased fairness, not your own bias against gun ownership. If you do not, I will be forced to boycott your network as well as all products that you advertise.

Sincerely,
