C-Span
400 North Capitol ST. NW, Suite 650
Washington, DC 20001

Sirs:

It is 8:40 a.m. Central time. I have tried to get through to C-Span on the Conservative line: 202/624-1115. Ms. Barbara Ladeen is your guest and I would dearly love to talk to her. No way could I get through. But two hard line Democrats got through on consecutive calls. Finally, a conservative has gotten through. Now there's a liberal line person, a man, on the line.

Would you please check to assure that callers (and attempted callers such as I) get even handed treatment on C-Span. Now the

~~I am~~ next caller, a woman speaking about the Mellons, etc., gets through on the "moderate" or "liberal line". It's 8:47 CST.

I am an 81-year old widow of a World War II veteran. I would dearly love to speak to C-Span about what I think of the present scandal as opposed to former Presidents' tenures in office.

Now (8:50) a "media woman" gets through to say her piece on the liberal line.

Thank you

PS you can see I crumpled this and started to throw it away. I reconsidered, however, believing that perhaps it might have a worthwhile purpose to mail it to you.
