To Whom It May Concern:

A couple of weeks ago, I was watching C-SPAN with my husband and watched the call-in show with Spencer Abraham, Co-Chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee and his counterpart from the Democratic Party. I thought it was a most fascinating show especially since so much media attention this year is focused only on the Presidential race. However, my husband and I believe that congressional races in a year of reapportionment could result in some dramatic changes in the make-up of the Congress.

We both found Mr. Abraham to be very forthright in his responses not only to the phoners but also to the moderator of the show. We appreciated his insights, his candor and frankly the good humor in which he seems to take his responsibilities and present them on the air.

We look forward to seeing similar types of call-in shows in the future on C-SPAN since we are big fans.

Again, congratulations on a fine and interesting show with Mr. Abraham and his counterpart.

Sincerely,
