WHY I WATCH C-SPAN

I watch C-SPAN because it is very informative. I am a military member in the U.S. Air Force and I want to know what's going on in Washington D.C. and every other place in the world. C-SPAN opens it up to me. C-SPAN is the only medium that the total american public have that will enhance their knowledge about how our congressmen and women and other elected officials on Capital Hill represent us.

Through C-SPAN we gain an enormous amount of education on how american foreign policy is made; why we have a politically strong nation and how our demography plays an important role in making us one of the worlds super powers. I watch C-SPAN because we as an american people act from our emotions instead of facts most of the time, but C-SPAN allows us to hear and see the facts as they are being made. C-SPAN gives the american public first hand information and not a summarize view of what the producers feel will dramatize us.

Through C-SPAN we get some of our personal questions answered on the phone-in program. With this program we get a wider range of ideas exchanged between the viewing public. I've learned more about the fuss over our presence in El Salvador than ever before since watching C-SPAN. I don't like to read very much so C-SPAN keeps me in touch with the world around me. C-SPAN provides americans with a wide array of programs that sparks the enthusiasm of many many people. By watching C-SPAN one can see and feel his or her individual or group involvement in certain policy making matters.

C-SPAN's programing exceeds all of my standards of what a television program should be, and with that note I'll be compelled to say C-SPAN you're doing a super job. KEEP IT COMING!
