

REVERE LANTERN — On April 18, 1775, Paul Revere ordered a pair of lanterns hung in Old North Church, Boston, to signal whether British forces would travel to Concord by land or sea. This lantern, in the Concord (Mass.) Antiquarian Museum Collection, is the only remaining of the pair.

Keep on telling
them that we need
better programming
more than we need
a better picture. I wouldn't pay $700 or $7000. Thanks.
