Dear C-Span Rep.,

An idea for a program(s). The BBC produced two mini series / movies, one entitled "House of Cards", and "A Very British Coup". Both were written by a conservative British political aide. Public Broadcasting broadcast the programs. Each dealt with the machinations of politicians and the media to bring about a desired political result.

Caribbean music, Reggae, Calypso
etc. is rich in political commentary as well.

Why not do a series/program on these two means of expressing political aspirations?
The program could also explore why such themes don't find their way into American entertainment.

Sincerely Yum.

P.S. - I need a job. Are there any opportunities at C-SPAN in the programming/production department?

Also, I would appreciate it if whenever a guest declares "the American people" want this or that, you ask, "Which segment are you referring to?" Thank.
