

Dear Brian -

Thanks so much for contributing to my first-ever non-traumatic TV experience. We here at the NPC were delighted with the program, my bosses in Fort Wayne were thrilled with the exposure — and I was so grateful I didn't have a panic attack and run screaming from the set. There's no logic to terror, of course, but the competence, helpfulness and calmness of you and everyone else at ESPN surely were major factors in keeping my angst at a manageable level.

What I really want to know is how you were sure those funny faces you sent my way while you were talking to Jonathan would not get picked up by a camera! Thanks again.
