CSPAN:

My wife and I watched a portion of your April 20, 1994 coverage of the Senate and we couldn't believe that our Senators would waste so much time trying to justify their free reserved parking spaces at the D.C. airports! I have never heard so many argue so long in favor of such a very miniscule item. How valuable is it for our congressional representatives to have this free-bee?

If the time of the Senators is so valuable, as they kept insisting during this coverage, how could they waste so much time trying to justify this perk?

Danforth, Reid, Mousher, Heflin, et al, all really sounded like a group of small children who have been told that they may have their candy taken away from them! Unbelievable, when this country has such very serious problems and which should be on the front burner 100% of the time!!

Sincerely,
