forward my
remarks to Ted Derive - He may
forward our names
to Clinton's hit list
& the least that
could happen to us
would be an IRS Audit.
Pass my note on to
Ralph Reed Anytime!

Isn't it crazy to think that in America you have to be afraid of criticizing
your President - only w/ Clinton's!

Just my Opinion

Re: Program on Jan 14 '98

I'm a long time writing of how infuriated by Tad Devines (Dem. Pal. Consultant)
reaction to a Caller That Clinton Has a yellow
streak down his back -
Mr Devines Comment was:

"Ask Any member of the Military if Clinton has not been supportive and made the right choices -- He's been vindicated about the Military"

Baloney - That infuriated
me! What a jerk for Clinton
to take advantage
of the imposed
silence of the Military -

people probably Don't Know that military people
Cannot do otherwise publicly.
What would happen to
A General, Colonel that did not slobber all over Clinton? ---- No more promotions - what would happen to those "underlings"
who did anything to cause
those Generals, & Colonels, Majors, Captains, Sergeants,
enlisted, to ^{look} anything less than wildly cheering for the President ?? Same thing.
The military is not supposed to be political - But Clinton is their "Commander-in-Chief"
no matter how it sticks in their craw. There are so many ways, very subtle,
that they insult the military. I could write
a book - Sincerely,

The 'modern' little red hen

Once upon a time, there was a little red hen who scratched about the barnyard until she uncovered some grains of wheat. She called her neighbors and said, "If we plant this wheat, we shall have bread to eat. Who will help me plant it?"

"Not I," said the cow.

"Not I," said the duck.

"Not I," said the pig.

"Not I," said the goose.

"Then I will," said the little red hen. And she did. The wheat grew tall and ripened into golden grain.

"Who will help me reap my wheat," asked the little red hen.

"Not I," said the duck.

"Out of my classification," said the pig.

"I'd lose my seniority," said the cow.

"I'd lose my unemployment compensation," said the goose.

"Then I will," said the little red hen, and she did.

At last, it came time to bake the bread. "Who will help me bake the bread?" asked the little red hen.

"That would be overtime for me," said the cow.

"I'd lose my welfare benefits," said the duck.

"I'm a drop out and never learned how," said the pig.

"If I'm to be the only helper, that's discrimination," said the goose.

"Then I will," said the little red hen. She baked five loaves and held them up for her neighbors to see. They wanted some, and, in fact, demanded a share. But the little red hen said, "No, I can eat the five loaves."

"Excess profits," cried the cow.

"Capitalist leech!" screamed the duck.

"I demand equal rights!" yelled the goose.

And the pig just grunted. And they painted "unfair" picket signs and marched round and round the little red hen, shouting obscenities.

When the government agent came, he said to the little red hen, "You must not be greedy."

"But I earned the bread," said the little red hen.

"Exactly," said the agent. "That is the wonderful free enterprise system. Anyone in the barnyard can earn as much as he or she wants. But under our modern government regulations, the productive workers must divide their product with the idle."

And they lived happily ever after, including the little red hen, who smiled and clucked, "I am grateful, I am grateful."

But her neighbors wondered why she never again baked any more bread.

SPEECH May, 1995

There is nothing patriotic about hating your country or pretending that you can love your country and despise your government. . . .

LETTER TO ROTC, 1969

I want you to understand . . . how so many people have come to find themselves still loving their country but loathing the military. . . .
