Outrage is not dead and moral fibre & concern is far from dead

In the outreaches of this great land there are the multitudes of people whose voices you never hear & even if you could hear them - so very little attention is paid to them! But, ~~let~~^{assure} ~~us~~ ^{you} - BEWARE!
We're out here & we are talking it all in & we are quite simply horrified at your lack of OUTRAGE.

What happened to this great land givers?
Is there no sense of shame concerning the obvious direction in which this God Blessed Country is going? Colin Peden Powell was right after all! Several years ago now, he voiced concern about our lack of "Shame". I am left in disbelief!
When I became a USA Citizen & took the Oath of Allegiance in February 1980 - I did not do it haphazardly. It took me over twenty years to come with my most deliberate, prepared and wholehearted decision. I took it willingly. But it meant giving up something!! You natural born Americans take this great country & its forefathers (mothers!) for granted.

I was born in England, during World War II, and I deeply love that "green & pleasant land". But I did not live there anymore. I was transplanted here I came to love this country - ever really & I

This mid-nineteenth century quilt by Hannah Foote displays the complex appliqué designs typical of the Baltimore Album quilts.

realized it was good, after all, to be an American Citizen. But, when I took that solemn oath I did not cross my fingers. I did not look the other way & I did not feel any sense of misguided loyalty. When an elected official Such as the Senate (Senators i.e.) and most all the President (an elected official) takes the oath of office I expect no less from them.
I left ^{the} decision regarding Mr. Clinton's mis-~~demeanor~~ to the good judgment of each individual Senator. I followed the process closely & witnessed how they voted (or did not vote!) They voted their "conscience"! I was not the judge. BILT, history will be - I'm afraid.
The Senate has embarrassed me & betrayed my trust. The generations that follow have been let down. I shall expect much better behavior from all my future Presidents & I hope to GO.
They are fearful of their words as well as deeds.
I don't expect perfection (it might be very nice - BILT ~~so~~ being!!) But I do expect honesty and humility.....
I accepted Mr. Clinton's last apology! So be it - he could have been a great President! What a SHAME!
(He let himself down)
