Dear C-Span,

Kindly be careful how you advertise the sponsors of your programs anymore because when you advertise AARS as a promoter its a pure masquerade today

AARS has been so taken over by the NRDA that there is practically no AARS to be seen or heard from anymore.

That's why I have no time for all the talk about "education" by anyone running for office today.

The NEA has already done more to ruin the education of our youth who graduate from more than secondary education "functionally illiterate" than any ever could; so they dont need to take over AARS to speak through yet too.

No country in the world spends more on all levels of education than we the American taxpayers do, and have done, but get less for it because of all the screwy talk the N.E.A. has put over on us so they could be better paid for doing less.

The home needs more authority over their children than the school counselors, and the social services departments do, as it once was.

The teachers need to have an interest in inspiring minds rather than paychecks as it used to be.

Sincerely

Not fooled by any anymore,
