

NEWS FROM:

C-SPAN AMERICA'S NETWORK

Suite 155 • 400 N. Capitol Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20001

Release: IMMEDIATE

Contact: Susan Swain
Liz Bauer
(202) 737-3220

--C-SPAN TO OFFER IN-DEPTH COVERAGE OF INAUGURAL FESTIVITIES --

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- This weekend, January 18 - 21, cable viewers will have access to some of the most extensive coverage of a presidential inauguration ever offered as C-SPAN cameras blanket Washington for in-depth looks at official and behind-the-scenes plans for the presidential inaugural.

On Monday, January 21, C-SPAN will devote its entire programming day to the Inauguration. Live coverage of the swearing-in ceremony (11:30 am est) highlights the day, but C-SPAN will begin televising events from the west front of the Capitol at 8:00 am est. Through live interviews from the Capitol grounds, shots of the other media at work, and views of the crowd assembling, C-SPAN hopes to capture a sense of the enormity of the inaugural arrangements. C-SPAN will wind up its day with live coverage from two inaugural balls (8:00 pm to 11:00 pm est).

"Our goal as a public affairs network," says C-SPAN programming director Carrie Collins, "is to serve as an alternative for the viewer. Other networks will be there to provide instant analysis and commentary on the day's events. We plan just to let our cameras roll for extended periods of time to give our audience a real sense of 'being there'."

Throughout Monday, C-SPAN will schedule a variety of viewer call-in guests to provide their perspectives on inaugural arrangements. Guests include former Reagan speechwriter Aram Bakshian (8:00 am est), National Portrait Gallery Chief Michael Pachter, (12:30 pm est) and Honorary Inaugural Chairman Bob Gray (5:00 pm est).

C-SPAN's live coverage of inaugural events begins Friday at 6:00 pm est as President Reagan kicks off the weekend with a ceremony from the White House Ellipse. On Saturday, C-SPAN moves to Washington's Constitution Hall, where Vice President George Bush and others address 3,000 young people from across the nation in a "Leadership Forum for Young Americans" (9:45 to 11:30 am est). And on Saturday and Sunday, C-SPAN will videotape a variety of events for inclusion in Monday's day-long Inaugural programming.

C-SPAN will reair the inaugural ceremony at 4:00 and 11:00 pm est on January 21 to make it available to a wider audience. Currently, C-SPAN can be seen in 20 million homes via 2,000 affiliated cable systems.

NEWS FROM:

C-SPAN AMERICA'S NETWORK

Suite 155 • 400 N. Capitol Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20001

Release: IMMEDIATE

Contact: Susan Swain
Liz Bauer
(202) 737-3220

--C-SPAN TO OFFER IN-DEPTH COVERAGE OF INAUGURAL FESTIVITIES --

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- This weekend, January 18 - 21, cable viewers will have access to some of the most extensive coverage of a presidential inauguration ever offered as C-SPAN cameras blanket Washington for in-depth looks at official and behind-the-scenes plans for the presidential inaugural.

On Monday, January 21, C-SPAN will devote its entire programming day to the Inauguration. Live coverage of the swearing-in ceremony (11:30 am est) highlights the day, but C-SPAN will begin televising events from the west front of the Capitol at 8:00 am est. Through live interviews from the Capitol grounds, shots of the other media at work, and views of the crowd assembling, C-SPAN hopes to capture a sense of the enormity of the inaugural arrangements. C-SPAN will wind up its day with live coverage from two inaugural balls (8:00 pm to 11:00 pm est).

"Our goal as a public affairs network," says C-SPAN programming director Carrie Collins, "is to serve as an alternative for the viewer. Other networks will be there to provide instant analysis and commentary on the day's events. We plan just to let our cameras roll for extended periods of time to give our audience a real sense of 'being there'."

Throughout Monday, C-SPAN will schedule a variety of viewer call-in guests to provide their perspectives on inaugural arrangements. Guests include former Reagan speechwriter Aram Bakshian (8:00 am est), National Portrait Gallery Chief Michael Pachter, (12:30 pm est) and Honorary Inaugural Chairman Bob Gray (5:00 pm est).

C-SPAN's live coverage of inaugural events begins Friday at 6:00 pm est as President Reagan kicks off the weekend with a ceremony from the White House Ellipse. On Saturday, C-SPAN moves to Washington's Constitution Hall, where Vice President George Bush and others address 3,000 young people from across the nation in a "Leadership Forum for Young Americans" (9:45 to 11:30 am est). And on Saturday and Sunday, C-SPAN will videotape a variety of events for inclusion in Monday's day-long Inaugural programming.

C-SPAN will reair the inaugural ceremony at 4:00 and 11:00 pm est on January 21 to make it available to a wider audience. Currently, C-SPAN can be seen in 20 million homes via 2,000 affiliated cable systems.

NEWS FROM:

C-SPAN AMERICA'S NETWORK

Suite 155 • 400 N. Capitol Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20001

Release: IMMEDIATE

Contact: Susan Swain
Liz Bauer
(202) 737-3220

--C-SPAN TO OFFER IN-DEPTH COVERAGE OF INAUGURAL FESTIVITIES --

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- This weekend, January 18 - 21, cable viewers will have access to some of the most extensive coverage of a presidential inauguration ever offered as C-SPAN cameras blanket Washington for in-depth looks at official and behind-the-scenes plans for the presidential inaugural.

On Monday, January 21, C-SPAN will devote its entire programming day to the Inauguration. Live coverage of the swearing-in ceremony (11:30 am est) highlights the day, but C-SPAN will begin televising events from the west front of the Capitol at 8:00 am est. Through live interviews from the Capitol grounds, shots of the other media at work, and views of the crowd assembling, C-SPAN hopes to capture a sense of the enormity of the inaugural arrangements. C-SPAN will wind up its day with live coverage from two inaugural balls (8:00 pm to 11:00 pm est).

"Our goal as a public affairs network," says C-SPAN programming director Carrie Collins, "is to serve as an alternative for the viewer. Other networks will be there to provide instant analysis and commentary on the day's events. We plan just to let our cameras roll for extended periods of time to give our audience a real sense of 'being there'."

Throughout Monday, C-SPAN will schedule a variety of viewer call-in guests to provide their perspectives on inaugural arrangements. Guests include former Reagan speechwriter Aram Bakshian (8:00 am est), National Portrait Gallery Chief Michael Pachter, (12:30 pm est) and Honorary Inaugural Chairman Bob Gray (5:00 pm est).

C-SPAN's live coverage of inaugural events begins Friday at 6:00 pm est as President Reagan kicks off the weekend with a ceremony from the White House Ellipse. On Saturday, C-SPAN moves to Washington's Constitution Hall, where Vice President George Bush and others address 3,000 young people from across the nation in a "Leadership Forum for Young Americans" (9:45 to 11:30 am est). And on Saturday and Sunday, C-SPAN will videotape a variety of events for inclusion in Monday's day-long Inaugural programming.

C-SPAN will reair the inaugural ceremony at 4:00 and 11:00 pm est on January 21 to make it available to a wider audience. Currently, C-SPAN can be seen in 20 million homes via 2,000 affiliated cable systems.

###

###

NEWS FROM:

C-SPAN AMERICA'S NETWORK

Suite 155 • 400 N. Capitol Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20001

Release: IMMEDIATE

Contact: Susan Swain
Liz Bauer
(202) 737-3220

--C-SPAN TO OFFER IN-DEPTH COVERAGE OF INAUGURAL FESTIVITIES --

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- This weekend, January 18 - 21, cable viewers will have access to some of the most extensive coverage of a presidential inauguration ever offered as C-SPAN cameras blanket Washington for in-depth looks at official and behind-the-scenes plans for the presidential inaugural.

On Monday, January 21, C-SPAN will devote its entire programming day to the Inauguration. Live coverage of the swearing-in ceremony (11:30 am est) highlights the day, but C-SPAN will begin televising events from the west front of the Capitol at 8:00 am est. Through live interviews from the Capitol grounds, shots of the other media at work, and views of the crowd assembling, C-SPAN hopes to capture a sense of the enormity of the inaugural arrangements. C-SPAN will wind up its day with live coverage from two inaugural balls (8:00 pm to 11:00 pm est).

"Our goal as a public affairs network," says C-SPAN programming director Carrie Collins, "is to serve as an alternative for the viewer. Other networks will be there to provide instant analysis and commentary on the day's events. We plan just to let our cameras roll for extended periods of time to give our audience a real sense of 'being there'."

Throughout Monday, C-SPAN will schedule a variety of viewer call-in guests to provide their perspectives on inaugural arrangements. Guests include former Reagan speechwriter Aram Bakshian (8:00 am est), National Portrait Gallery Chief Michael Pachter, (12:30 pm est) and Honorary Inaugural Chairman Bob Gray (5:00 pm est).

C-SPAN's live coverage of inaugural events begins Friday at 6:00 pm est as President Reagan kicks off the weekend with a ceremony from the White House Ellipse. On Saturday, C-SPAN moves to Washington's Constitution Hall, where Vice President George Bush and others address 3,000 young people from across the nation in a "Leadership Forum for Young Americans" (9:45 to 11:30 am est). And on Saturday and Sunday, C-SPAN will videotape a variety of events for inclusion in Monday's day-long Inaugural programming.

C-SPAN will reair the inaugural ceremony at 4:00 and 11:00 pm est on January 21 to make it available to a wider audience. Currently, C-SPAN can be seen in 20 million homes via 2,000 affiliated cable systems.

###

###

NEWS FROM:

C-SPAN AMERICA'S NETWORK

Suite 155 • 400 N. Capitol Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20001

Release: IMMEDIATE

Contact: Susan Swain
Liz Bauer
(202) 737-3220

--C-SPAN TO OFFER IN-DEPTH COVERAGE OF INAUGURAL FESTIVITIES --

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- This weekend, January 18 - 21, cable viewers will have access to some of the most extensive coverage of a presidential inauguration ever offered as C-SPAN cameras blanket Washington for in-depth looks at official and behind-the-scenes plans for the presidential inaugural.

On Monday, January 21, C-SPAN will devote its entire programming day to the Inauguration. Live coverage of the swearing-in ceremony (11:30 am est) highlights the day, but C-SPAN will begin televising events from the west front of the Capitol at 8:00 am est. Through live interviews from the Capitol grounds, shots of the other media at work, and views of the crowd assembling, C-SPAN hopes to capture a sense of the enormity of the inaugural arrangements. C-SPAN will wind up its day with live coverage from two inaugural balls (8:00 pm to 11:00 pm est).

"Our goal as a public affairs network," says C-SPAN programming director Carrie Collins, "is to serve as an alternative for the viewer. Other networks will be there to provide instant analysis and commentary on the day's events. We plan just to let our cameras roll for extended periods of time to give our audience a real sense of 'being there'."

Throughout Monday, C-SPAN will schedule a variety of viewer call-in guests to provide their perspectives on inaugural arrangements. Guests include former Reagan speechwriter Aram Bakshian (8:00 am est), National Portrait Gallery Chief Michael Pachter, (12:30 pm est) and Honorary Inaugural Chairman Bob Gray (5:00 pm est).

C-SPAN's live coverage of inaugural events begins Friday at 6:00 pm est as President Reagan kicks off the weekend with a ceremony from the White House Ellipse. On Saturday, C-SPAN moves to Washington's Constitution Hall, where Vice President George Bush and others address 3,000 young people from across the nation in a "Leadership Forum for Young Americans" (9:45 to 11:30 am est). And on Saturday and Sunday, C-SPAN will videotape a variety of events for inclusion in Monday's day-long Inaugural programming.

C-SPAN will reair the inaugural ceremony at 4:00 and 11:00 pm est on January 21 to make it available to a wider audience. Currently, C-SPAN can be seen in 20 million homes via 2,000 affiliated cable systems.

###

###