Dear Sir/Madam,

As a sometime viewer of C-Span which, (for the most part) I find very informative and educational, I was totally shocked and outraged at your live coverage of the Gay and Lesbian March in Washington DC.

At 6:15 pm CDT, I switched on the television to get the news and as I was switching channels, I came across the live coverage of the Gay and Lesbian March on C-Span. (Luckily, my 6 year old had just gone outside to play). A band called Girls in the Nose was playing. Needless to say, the sexual vulgarity of their song lyrics, the various stages of undress and the sexual insinuations of the dancers made me turn off the TV and stop and think.

Is this how the homosexual population seeks to gain acceptance, by showing itself in such a manner? While I do not believe the homosexuality is a "normal" human condition, I believe that their cause for equal treatment would be better supported by promoting a positive, responsible and productive image of homosexual persons, not by flaunting this vulgarity in the face of America.

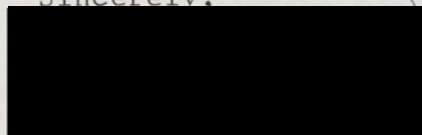

And, you as a news organization (being educated people) what true value and newsworthiness did you see in showing the nation this sort of display - live? Do you not realize the number of children who could have seen this in the afternoon? Would you give equal time and coverage to someone like Dr. James Dobson, if he held a rally criticizing the homosexual lifestyle?

I do not flaunt my hetersexuality at homosexuals, would that they respect the majority of the population and not flaunt theirs at me.

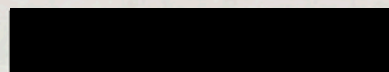

Respected news organizations (CBS, ABC, NBC, CNN and C-Span) should consider giving equal time to the other side of this issue, and truly hear (and listen to) the majority of Americans who are NOT homosexual instead of trying to force this behavior down our throats for the sake of being "politically correct".

Thank you for taking the time to read this letter. I will continue to watch C-Span, but will be more than ready to push the off button if such "news" comes on again.

Sincerely,
