C-S.PAN

Mr. Brian Lamb

Sir:

I do not expect to get a comment from you in any case, because I've never been able to get in on your spot on T.V spot. So I've no choice but to write you, and here it is.

You Sir, and perhaps one or two more on C-S.PAN, are very biased in your efforts to discredit Bill Clinton. However you made an adjustment today as I watched this date 2/19/93 about your up coming program 2/22/93.

You have the right, in your opinion, to ask how we vote out here. But do you know, that no matter how you split it, there are those of us out here who are able to understand how you voted?

Brian, I'm far from being an educated man, as you may discern from my bad spelling, and lack of form in this poorly written letter, try and bare with me if you will.

You Sir, in my opinion, are a sophisticated version of Rush Limbaugh. Your eyes light up at the criticism of President Clinton.

Brian, in your unique way, you inject your bias to most of every favorable comment made about Bill Clinton. It would be well if you'd come out of the Closet, as is stated about the Gays.

You're a Republican Brian. It's obvious. It's obvious in the way you handle the amount of calls to your program.

Now I'm a political junkie. Not a C-S.P.H.N junkie. I also pay a great deal of attention to C.N.N. I cross check news of all Media, in order to see or understand what is thought and said in this country, about our leaders that we choose. Guess what I've found?

Every one in this country are their own special interest. I now understand why England, Japan, Germany, and other countries say that every one in this country, and the country as a whole are for sale.

There is just not a single person in this country that want sell the other down the road financially, but will fight the devil himself with gasoline to protect his own.

Some call it, Metaphorically, "Who's ox that's being goved." I call it extreme greed.

Brian, don't you know, that if it were not the attitude of greed, and Meism, that all the spies, or Americans, who sold secrets to the former U.S.S.R, would not have not happen'd.

Sir You're not by any means under paid by the standards, in which shows poverty and sub living wages or determined. Clinton's plan touches you as well as others. Comfortable earners with a tax, imposed at a fair rate are very uncomfortable. Reason, it's take the other guys not mine.

Am I making sense to you Brian? The biggest single group of greedy people in this country are the so called Conservatives. The next largest group, are or is the Military Industrial Complex. Remember what President Dwight Eisenhower said?

For twelve years Brian, this country has based it's prosperity on a military economy. The country's economy was boosted by how much Washington could buy for, defense.

Check the twenty million new jobs that Conservatives claim Reagan produced along with Bush over twelve years. Then came the Monkey wrench, old Mike Grubbs here the wall came down, and with it, the economy started crumbling in this country.

No provisions were ever made for a domestic economy in case this happened. Reagan and Bush kept the Military Industrial Complex going, and it made them seem to have been geniuses. And when things dipped a little, they'd find some small country to jump on, in order to show off our amazing weapons, so that the Military Industrial Complex could keep the economy going.

Remember what was said about the long period of growth, and prosperity? Now think of how it abruptly ended, when we did not have the Russians to keep our war economy going. Reagan would have been just another failed Hoover, if he would have had to deal with a situation such as Roosevelt did in the 1930's, which brings us to this point about Bush.

Republicans, are baffled about their not being still in the white house. Every one of them are confused. The country says that Bush was a foreign policy President, and, he was. The country says that Bush had no idea of how bad the economy was, and, he didn't.

Do you recall how James Baker urged Bush to spur a program to produce F-15 fighter planes during the campaign of 1992, when Bush was so far down in the polls? Does that not give you the clue you need to understand what went on for twelve previous years? There was no need for newer and more weapons. The military had to be cut. In short, nothing to lean on.

So, Brian, here you have it, for an old elderly Korean War veteran, who grew up in the south, as a black person. I love this country, no matter how I got here. I've tried to improve my poor education, and I've tried to understand what drives this country -

What I've found is, greed, and dishonesty, in such proportions that it blinds the Majority of people to the real thing. That real thing is, "one must prepare for peace in times of war, just as certain as one must prepare for war in times of peace."

For twelve years, we did not do the former of that view of wisdom. We borrow'd and spent, and had a good time in the eighties under Reason-Bush. Reason went away a hero, leaving Bush his legacy. Gorbichev busted the bubble under Bush, and Bush was left with no peace time plan. Would you not agree?

So Brian, if you are as intelligent as I expect. Quit trying to find reasons why Clinton will not succeed as does the rest of the media, and think of what the country is faced with in a peace time situation, and that will clear up what your questions are about the boom, or longest peace time expansion, so called. Remember that this is the real peace time period. There is no longer an arms race to spur the greed and Reason's phoney claim to be a genius.

There is a war now Brian. This war is about the "Economy Stupid". It's about free and fair trade, it's about health care, and jobs that will pay a living wage, it's about Government accountability, and reform. It's about education of our children in order to compete in a changing world economy. It is about the very future of this country going in to the next century.

It is now about the "Economy stupid". Have a good day Brian and a better future under our leadership as it tries to face reality of the future, and tries to correct the grass hopper approach of the last twelve years.

P.S. The only people that say, "I can't, or it can't be done, are dead," because, there is a solution for any problem even in the unborn," let alone the living.
