Suggestion

Dear Brian,

Judging by the amount of time you spend in my home via C-SPAN I make no apologies for addressing you on a first name basis. Notwithstanding the fact that I am old enough to be your father and rarely ever call boys "Mister"

The reason I am writing you this letter is to ask you a favor, (no I don't want to borrow money.) What I want is easy for you to accomplish and will not even take you away from what you normally do anyhow. Namely, your association with Journalists on your round table program.

During the 73 years of my life many events have taken place becoming part of History but there have been some put away which have missing parts and which in my mind must be considered unfinished business. So as not to burden you excessively, I shall list only three.

1. The Lindberg Kidnapping Case.

I have always thought that an innocent man was put to death for that crime and was railroaded merely to close the case lest further investigation show that people of higher stature may have become involved. At the time the story was headlines in every newspaper a rumor was passed about that Lindberg himself may have been a player. It was alleged that the baby was abnormal, afflicted with a condition which in those days was called a (WATER HEAD) and which because of his celebrity was an embarrassment to he and his wife. The rumor was short lived, as I remember, but it never was dismissed as poppycock. There is one person still alive who could clear up the whole matter if she so desired. It would have to come about with a degree of haste in-as-much that Ann Morrow Lindberg turned 88 years old last week.

2. The Landing On The Moon.

So far as I know, evidence has never been forth-coming that would make it indisputable fact. A few so called "MOON ROCKS" seems rather shallow if that is the only offering presented to verify that "STEP FOR MANKIND". Perhaps I missed something. Like Creation and the resurrection of Christ, the MOON LANDING permits me to be agnostic in case it is all really true and

I find myself alone and out on the limb of disbelief.
GOD help me!

3.The Desert Storm War.

There seems to be only one undeniable truth evolving from that skirmish and that is the mysterious suffering of many who served there and who are now disabled. Not with war associated damage but with yet undetected virus onslaught or scorpion poisoning. A half-truth is that we won that war. Bush, who was the director of the drama, is no longer President but Saddam is still the despicable ruler of Iraq. Paradoxically the reporting of the Desert Storm episode was more impressing than the war itself. It was not bloody enough to satisfy our savage instincts and was suspiciously faultless in it's operation. Is it possible that any war could be executed without some malfunction? What happened to those five thousand tanks that were poised for our attack? That and many more questions remain to be answered.

Now for the favor----- Present these questions to your guests to research and see if they can supply believable answers so we can stamp them "CASE CLOSED"

Thanks Brian
