

[REDACTED]
San Jose, CA 95120

December 20, 1993

C-SPAN Networks
400 N. Capitol St. N.W.
Suite 650
Washington D.C. 20001

I was shocked and disappointed that C-SPAN, in the style of tabloid T.V., did not waste a second interviewing David Brock. Your disclaimer that you had invited a spokesman from the White House was not good enough for a network that is supposed to have some degree of dignity and neutrality. You could have invited Sidney Blumenthal of the New Yorker or Bob Beckel of CBS for another point of view. At least Nightline had the good taste to do just that. This is about the President of the United States and you could not even wait a decent 24 hours to see if the story is true or if it has any "holes." Furthermore, the interview was not challenging enough to be credible.

You have dropped in people's minds from an unbiased servant of the people to a network scrambling for ratings. How sad and unfortunate for all of us who no longer have C-SPAN to count on for a neutral presentation of the day's events.

A most disgusted viewer,
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
San Jose, Calif. 95120

C-SPAN Networks
400 N. Capital St. N.W.
Suite 650
Washington, D.C. 20001