

Dear Sirs:

On your show in which you interview authors of books, you interviewed approximately several months ago a man whose last name is Strauss. He wrote or co-authored a book about the different generations of Americans such as the baby-boomers ect. I think the gentleman is also associated with the comedy group called The Capitol Steps. I think Brian Lamb interviewed him. I hope my descriptions will be enough to help you be able to tell me what the title of the book is and the publisher of the book. I hope I remembered the author's name correctly. I think his name is Strauss or something close to that. My mailing address is [REDACTED]
