

What has changed, as a result of my exposure to your fine coverage, is that for the next 10 days or so - despite my advancing age and some difficulties in walking - I will make myself be seen, in supermarkets, a bank, a post office, a gas station or two, and on the street. Hanging from a cord around my neck will be a sign, reading:

If I can affect one person a day, it will be worth the effort. Again, I thank you.

St. Johnsbury, VT 05819

St. Johnsbury, VT 05819
24 October 1998

Dear C-SPAN,

Just a few weeks ago, when I wrote to thank you for introducing me to a very special guest, I had never before written to any radio station or TV network. Now I am penning another brief note - again to express my appreciation - for airing the rally in Washington today sponsored by a group called "We the People." I found myself in consonance with many of the views expressed and had already decided that the only place for an honest man to be on November 3rd was at the polling booths.

o-rally

Point of Tranquility, 1959–1960
Morris Louis, American, 1912–1962
resin-based acrylic on canvas
101 $\frac{1}{4}$ " x 135 $\frac{1}{4}$ "
Gift of Joseph H. Hirshhorn, 1966

HIRSHHORN MUSEUM AND SCULPTURE GARDEN

© 1992 Smithsonian Institution

Printed in the U.S.A. on recycled paper