Dear Brain:

Reference to your recent program on Yugoslavia with Alex Dragnich. During the interview you asked a question as to what books a person could read to learn more about Yugoslavia. Inasmuch, as your question was un-answered suggest you read Rebecca West's "Black Lamb and Grey Falcon". It describes her journey through Yugoslavia, and ties together the history, cultures, religions, politics and tensions within the country. The book has been recognized has the most distinguished non-fiction work of Rebecca West.

I enjoy your programs on C-Span very much. Keep up the good work.

Sincerely

Omaha, Nebraska 68154
