Editors note:

These jottings were written directly after the interview with Kevin Klose -

Please tell Mr Klose he was very enjoyable to watch.
I also plan to buy the book -

C-Span is everything that's right and good about this country of ours. It's the quintessential representation of our freedom of speech -

When I turn to the C-SPAN network and watch the House or the Senate debate a bill

I am filled with a feeling of nationalistic pride much the same as when I salute the flag at a ballgame - Where else in this world will you find a government in action with its doors flung wide for anyone to see? It's a marvelous, marvelous thing - Emotions aside however →

C-span has to be one of the best sources available for current no-nonsense information. And also, I have found that I am more knowledgeable about the legislators from states other than my own. Less than noteworthy but nonetheless interesting and often important Speeches by people I've never heard of but will not likely forget are very often passed over by the major networks; It's understandable given their time limitations. But I was fascinated by the Democratic Party's Platform meeting held April 9th (?). I enjoyed seeing all of it, microphone feedbacks and all.

C-span is good television and though much more can be said I just want to close with my thanks for doing such a good and my fervent wish that your books balance so you'll stay on a long time —
yours sincerely —
