

Alined copy - C-Span

copy

February 16, 1991

001464 FEB 21 91

CNN

Atlanta, GA 30374 0160

Dear Persons:

Having been a C-Span junkie I started being a CNN viewer at the beginning of the war. Now, following the advice of wise men I watch CNN for 'diet' periods during the day as it was becoming a depressant.

I remember wars and the prime time video game style of what is being presented is unreal and not preparing Americans for what reality is ahead if a ground war comes to pass. I promise they will be more shocked than Baghdad was.

I also remember the trials after WW II and the judges (German) that justified that their remaining on the bench (although giving in to the government on principals) was justified in that they provided some justice. They were found guilty. Your Peter A. is of the same stature. Justification that he still gets out some stories although he must present some of the Baghdad's tripe will find him also guilty. If he was a professional he would present a balance story of his own or leave. The excuse that most people will recognize that plant workers don't walk around with English 'Baby Milk Plant Worker' printed on their back is a poor rationalization. Many, in fact hundreds of thousands viewing throughout the world would not pick up on that one.

I love C-Span but feel your CNN (in present floormat) will have a short life not unlike a some fancy dishes that turns quickly into a foul smelling dregs.

Sincerely,

[Redacted signature block]

Hilton Head, GA 29926

cc: T. Murphy ✓