

C-span

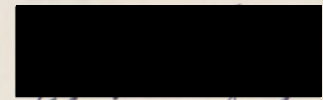

Suite 55

400 North Capitol Street

Wash DC. 20007

TACOMA WASH 98405

I watched C-span because it offers me an opportunity to view the nation's conscience on political and social issues that confront our free society. Like no other program I feel C-span unbars the mind of the public to different issues from bar room debates to presidential address in order to persuade, inform or evoke a response to stimulate a mood whether positive or negative in effort to bring about a change our nation's citizens moral is at stake. Nothing more venerating to hear the news first hand from the platform of concern. You can't do nothing, when there is nothing to do, especially if you haven't heard. Most of our nation's complacent attitude reflects upon this above postulate. People involvement with issues of our national social ills and political mechanism regardless of level must be met by the conscious public. The climate of exclusion can be an unwritten law of this land, it also must be reconciled with. Even the blind and the illiterate can now gain factual information from such diverse programming (C-span) about world events. To restore perhaps a sense of order in the world, there must be a platform of issues concerning the world trade, foreign policy, human need programs. People have the right to view and critique these array of issues offers the greatest response to change. C-span does a superb job of placing the viewing audience right in the cities that vary in milieu or debate room that are the setting for controversial issues seems to be long needed for public discourse. I hope C-span remains, for its ^{vital} network to our nation's community. Thanks

Tacoma Wash 98405

C - SPAN
Suite 155
400 North Capitol Street
Washington, D.C. 20001