Judge orders gag in Paula Jones suit

LITTLE ROCK — A federal judge slapped a gag order Thursday on both sides in Paula Jones' sexual harassment lawsuit against President Clinton, saying publicity was eroding the chances for a fair trial. 10-30-97

U.S. District Judge Susan Webber Wright's order covers attorneys, spokespeople and potential witnesses. Court papers regarding pretrial information are to be filed under seal.

The judge said the chance of a fair trial "will be prejudiced if the existing pretrial publicity . . . were permitted to continue."

and Army and National Guard officials will be present to answer questions.

The Guard is seeking a license from the Department of the Army to manage and operate the major land area of Fort Hunter Liggett.

This would ensure that National Guard units, particularly its 40th Mechanized Infantry Division, will have access to the facilities they need to stay combat ready, said retired Col. Paul T. Humphrey, who represents the California National Guard in Washington, D.C.

It is more likely they were mapping out the road systems for the French Army.

Both plans were long term. (30 yrs)

Both were probably ahead of schedule. Other events usually are ahead of schedule.

But remember "what goes up, must come down".

Dear Brian,
Greetings

It is always a pleasure.

I have a idea.

Please inform who ever job it is,
that the person who invented a nick name for Chinese President Jiang Jemin is writing Brian Lamb, & what should be the proper response!

Or, a gift to use anyway
you wish in a positive & respectful way.

"The Shanghai Kid"
could also be a Movie, or book Title.
Or the name of a pro wrestler
Or the name of one of the people who will shape the future

the "Kid" has a gigantic task, & we must send helpful thoughts, & hope & wish for his good luck.

Thank you for your time
