C-Span

James Warren, (fair, but definitely not a Republican) Julianne Malveaux (most definitely not a Republican, in fact, she's a Republican-hater!) Sanford Ungar (not a Republican) and Carol Browner (not a Republican) — this is Monday's line-up?

Where are the Republicans?

I depend on C-Span for a Republican "voice" because NBC, ABC, NBC, PBS, the New York Times, the Washington Post, the Boston Globe, the Baltimore Sun, the Atlanta Journal-Constitution, etc. are biased to the left.

So many magazines, too, are left-biased, <sup>so</sup> that it can be very == difficult to get the Republican "side" of any story.

So.. C-Span, be scrupulous in giving equal coverage to both sides of the political spectrum each day.

I actually love C-Span, and watch often, and I realize that your network is an objective, factual, place to go for both sides of "the story", but it scares me when the left get hours of on-camera time, and one lone Republican gets forty-five minutes, or sixty minutes, (that's too much like, so-called, mainstream television where a 3 Democrat to 1 Republican ratio is the norm!)

It amazes me that the Republicans took over the Congress of this country after ~~fourty~~ decades of Democrat rule. Because the whole media culture including the entertainment industry is so anti-Republican.

P.S. I wish C-Span could do a piece on hate-speech from the Left. I read, and hear, some terribly insulting language from the left which is, somehow, NEVER covered as any remotely negative remarks from the right is, ceaselessly!

I guess what I want is the dispelling of "myths" about the "compassionate and tolerant" left which throw around their hate labels with the knowledge that they will never be criticized, ridiculed, denigrated and attacked as Republicans routinely are in the media.
