Gentlemen:

My husband and I have followed the series of most of the presidents of the United States and we were very much impressed with the way the people who talked about each one were very interesting to listen too.

I have on our computer the Encarta Encyclopedia and I found a list of all the presidents and their Vice-Presidents and I was able to make a copy of this list. Then I took each president and found out about him and wrote down on a big sheets of paper the date of birth and death who were his parents and the name of the place where each president was born, and if there were any other children born in the family. Then I found out who they married and the date of the marriage and also their children, if any.

It took me weeks to do this project and it was a lot of fun. Back in Chicago we only learned about a few. On the Encarta I have learned a lot about each president and other things about him and etc.

When I was working in Chicago, way before I got married, there was a parade on Michigan Ave and everyone in the building ~~went~~ went to see the parade and we all saw President and Mrs. Eisenhower and I was so happy. This made my day.

Then after the parade I went home and told my folks that I saw President and Mrs. Eisenhower. They were very happy that I had a great experience to see the president.

Well that is about all I have to say.

Best wishes for a happy, healthy, New Year.

We hope to hear from you real soon.

Sincerely yours,
