Dear Mr. Lamb,

Please address this issue with every panel
you assemble from now until the current administration is history!

Thank you,

Helena, MT. 59601

Mr. Bill Clinton has publically admitted now his intervention in Haiti is part of his plan to firmly establish democracy in the western hemisphere, a lofty and desirable goal by any standards, to be sure. However, our military does not exist to serve at the whim of every bleeding heart president for his own personal political agenda. Deplorable and pathetic though the situation in Haiti certainly is, the security of the United States of America is in NO way threatened by the political turmoil there, not now, never was, never will be. This is a flagrant reckless misuse of our armed forces for nothing more than the personal political satisfaction of the commander-in-chief. The official justification for this act that all possible diplomatic efforts to settle the dispute had been exhausted is frankly unbelievable and unacceptable. Our men and women in uniform are being used in Haiti as a political shield for the president of the United States.

I am LIVID, outraged by this willful act of endorsement to our military forces by this, our Peacenik president. Except in the case of direct assault on the United States of America, or a close ally, this man has no right to EVER order another human being into a combat situation. As president he may have the power and prerogative legally; he has no right morally. I certainly would have expected a decent intelligent individual such as himself to know that.

Regardless, he cannot be allowed to order anyone into a situation he once freely and willfully refused for himself!

All the political rhetoric concerning the use of the U. S. military as the world's benevolent 911 seems to have fallen on deaf ears at the White House. The deafening silence now emanating from Democrat quarters concerning this issue is almost unbearable, considering the 911 concept was such a hot political issue for Democrats not so very long ago when the proverbial shoe was on the other political foot.

But, this is an election year after all with much political power at stake, so all the good little Democrat "soldiers" will fall in line as expected, take a deep breath, look the other way, hold their tongues, pray for a politically favorable outcome, and hope nobody notices.

Somebody noticed.

This issue cannot be allowed to go unnoticed and unaddressed.
