

August 29, 1990

C - Span
400 No. Capital St.
Suite 650
Washington, D.C.

2826-90

AUG 31 REC'D
SERV 9.13.90

Gentlemen:

I enjoy C-Span, very much.
I have a question.

Why don't you have the Ambassador of Kuwait, Sheikh Saud Nasser Al-Jabir on one of your call-in shows? After all, Kuwait was the first victim of this invasion. Most people here do not realize how small his country is, how overpowered they were in sheer numbers. We have seen Dr. Al-Mashat on practically every network repeating the same defense of Iraq position, all other countries are wrong - no one understands
"poor, mistreated" Iraq.

I saw the Kuwait Ambassador to the U.S. on, I think, Larry King-CNN.
He is a very articulate, reasonable man, very willing to discuss his country, speaks excellent English.
I learned more about Kuwait in the short time on the program, their government, etc. Please get him on one of the C-Span call-in shows - and advise ahead several days, so we won't miss it. Perhaps some one from

- Saudi Arabia also. They are the ones we want are there to help. Give them the chance to explain why they so desperately needed us.

Our local (AP) paper carried a chart comparing forces. Their source was International Institute for Strategic Studies. Highlights for

	Regular Troops	Tanks	Combat aircraft
Kuwait	20,300	275	36
Saudi Arabia	43,200	550	179
U.S.A.E (4 combined)	68,300	248	149
Total	131,800	1073	364

vs
Iraq 1,000,000 5500 513

And Iraq is the only one with any significant battle experience.

Hussein is only TV every where you turn with his propaganda. Don't you think it would be newsworthy to present the other side.

Sincerely

[Redacted Signature]

Hinton, WS. 25951