

I watch C-Span because:

Your people are well informed moderators, not commentators bent on self glorification. I appreciate not being told what I just heard, or what wasn't said that I should have heard, or what I heard wasn't really what was said.

As your people are well informed moderators they come prepared to ask questions that need to be answered, but, do not act as the devil's advocates. Especially on the call in programs, allowing the caller to question the answers as unsatisfactory or incomplete.

Your live broadcasts are timely with a wide range of interests served. Your re-broadcasts or re-joining of programs in progress have a true ring of non-editing or biased excerpting.

Too, many years ago, as a young man I was privileged to sit in the galleries of Congress. From that experience I developed a real interest in the way our laws came about, were changed and enforced. While I never ran for public office, I registered and voted regularly. However, as the years passed by I somehow lost what I had learned, as a young man, in the gallery of congress. I registered and voted occasionally, but I regularly griped^{ed} and complained.

Thanks to C-Span I now again sit in the gallery of congress and have re-learned those early lessons

So I say:

I watch C-Span because
It has re-kindled my interest and concern for my government and
I am a better citizen for it

Sincerely
