Washington, DC,

My dear Brian Lamb:

One of your fine hosts asked a British commentator if media projected outcome of election before polls closed and the man said "No." He said polls closed very late 10 P.M. too, although Britain is in only 1 time zone. However Canada's "situation" many time zones is like that of U.S. and in national elections outcome of voting in eastern and middle time zones is not broadcast until Western Canadians have voted and the poles closed.

Also no electioneering ads permitted 24 hrs before the election,

Do you think you could have a program on that?

I'm glad I don't live in Western U.S. it'd be like very discouraging to hear results from polls in East Midwest etc, because a lot of voters might get on the bandwagon for candidate winning in other parts of the country and some Western voters wouldn't vote because they'd think their preferred candidate wasn't winning

I'm writing to some Western congressmen about this issue also,
