Ladies and Gentlemen:

I very much enjoyed your coverage of this year's Libertarian Party Presidential Nominating Conventions. I just wish you would have ~~the~~ telecast the exciting conclusion to the Vice Presidential race the next day.

Unlike the other parties, the Libertarian Party still practices politics the old-fashioned way - in front of the people. This makes their process interesting to the viewer and your type of coverage is ideal in bringing this drama into the home. Thank you.

I also want to compliment Brian Toub and his "Booknotes" program. I'm a weekly viewer of this fascinatingly different telecast. He does such a good job of interviewing that I find that I learn something interesting or new even if I don't care about the subject of the book or agree politically with the author. Please continue this novel program.
