The Nolan Chart was invented in 1971 by advertising executive David Nolan to replace the incomplete Left/Right political spectrum. The chart makes three improvements on the old approach.

- (1) It measures two crucial aspects of political systems: proposed personal freedom and proposed economic freedom.
- (2) It places together the strongly interventionist political systems such as Socialism, Populism, and Fascism.
- (3) It includes classical liberalism (the philosophy of the Founders), and its modern cousin, libertarianism.

Scoring Instructions

Find your real political position: Mark your A-E score on the vertical scale of the chart above. Draw a line from that point straight to the right. Then mark your F-J score on the horizontal scale, and draw a line straight up from it. Your political position is where the two lines cross.

Beyond Left/Right—The Postcard Quiz

Find out who in the world of politics agrees with you. Take this short quiz. Circle Y when you agree with a statement, N for no, and M for 'maybe, sometimes, or I need more information.'

Do you agree with these Personal Freedoms?

	20	0	10
A Military service should be voluntary. No draft.	Y	N	M
B Drug laws do more harm than good. Repeal them.	Y	N	M
C Citizens should be allowed to own handguns.	Y	N	M
D End sex legislation for consenting adults.	Y	N	M
E Include TV and radio in Freedom of the Press.	Y	N	M
Total score A-E (add 20 for Y, 0 for N, 10 for M)

Do you agree with these Economic Freedoms?

	20	0	10
F Sell the post office. Allow competition.	Y	N	M
G Remove tariffs and other barriers to free trade.	Y	N	M
H Government should NOT legislate wages or prices.	Y	N	M
I End government welfare. Turn it over to charities.	Y	N	M
J End farm subsidies and production restrictions.	Y	N	M
Total score F-J (add 20 for Y, 0 for N, 10 for M)
