Dear Brian Lamb,

How about having Ross Perot on Booknotes? I saw the C-Span replay of the speech he gave to the National Press Club last week and he mentioned that he had written a book titled Not for Sale at Any Price. If it's like United We Stand, America, it will be short, easy to read, and inexpensive so I'll most likely buy it. So that's not why I want to see him on Booknotes. I want to see you interview Ross--it would be fun. I don't believe he's ever been interviewed on television by someone staunchly neutral--probably because it's such a rare perspective among media people.

I'm positive you won't be the least bit influenced by this suggestion but maybe you were going to have Ross on anyway. Hope so. He is, after all, a genuine political entity.

Thanks for C-Span. Everyday it proves that the American grassroots are alive and buzzing.

Yours truly,
