To all responsible for the American Presidents' Life Portraits series:

These programs are the best I've ever seen on TV.
I especially enjoy the "life" portions - family, home, current events of the day, and interviews with descendants.

So far I have "perfect attendance" at the live show - each is on my calendar. It has been fascinating to watch the change in how history was recorded - as each week has depicted the steady progression from the artists' portraits, letters, and diaries to the latest color film footage of FDR.

I retired from teaching in June, 1998 - just in time to be able to indulge myself in the pleasure of catching each program from the first - with snow falling on Mt. Vernon.

As a teacher of primary age children, my first love and favorite part of the day was teaching reading. Now retired, I am indulging my passion by frequent trips to the library and bookstore.
Your series and BOOKNOTES keep my list a long one.
I'm currently reading

David McCullough's "Mornington Horseback" - about Teddy Roosevelt.

Thank you for the excellent series. I can only imagine the work you have done to make this so wonderful.

Sincerely,
