Dear Mr. Lamb,

Please, please do not ruin ESPN by going P.C. on us.

First you have bowed to pressure for "fairness" by installing political party lines on the morning call-in programs. That results in rigging the all over tenor of the program. The viewer can no longer judge the weight of pros & cons among the callers. Hot topics do not generate "fairness" they generate heat. By not taking calls at random you are being P.C. but not fair to the viewer. I have definite ideas of my own but am always interested in what those on the other side have to say. I do not need your people to filter them for me.

Secondly, you must be looking for a 5th presenter. Must it be a black? Can you not find the best person for the job? What next — are you going to fire one of the white men for a Latin or Asian female? After that can we expect a mixed race handicapped homosexual?

Susan, Connie, Steve & ? are just right for the job they are doing. Fortunately you have not yet succumbed to the cult of personality, so I don't know all their names.
The new boy is barely adequate, & certainly not in the same league with the others. If he becomes permanent it will just tell everyone that Espan has given up the fight to be the best & has taken on a black to silence the P.C. types. Don't do it, please!

Don't change "Booknotes", except an occasional repeat would be nice. Sometimes I miss a program.

I shall sign my own name but please don't use it as — "fools names & fools faces often appear - - - - -"

Sincerely,
