Dear Mr Lamb,

Significantly, blacks are becoming increasingly belligerent, both in Miami, Florida and Los Angeles, California. The police chiefs in these cities, both of whom are black, are warning their people that continued violence and murder will no longer be tolerated.

However, as long as these man-man activities continue, I will not be able to go to either place to attend the wholesale art and gift shows, which are crucial to my business.

Furthermore, our family will not be able to visit such places as the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C. this summer as planned, because of the prevailing conditions, and I want you to know that I thoroughly resent this threat to my personal safety and the inconvenience.

The fallout of the underlying Black culture is beginning to seriously affect Americans at many levels including economic, education, politics and personal safety. It has got to stop. — Please mention this to the appropriate guests on your great show.
