Dear Mr. Lamb,

Bravo Zulu for C-SPAN.

Recently watched a Booknotes segment where Ms. Dora Sobel, the author of Longitude, was your guest. What a stunning woman. Her eyes actually did flash with intelligence.

I know that wasn't lost on you because there was more electricity between the two of you on the set that night than there was between the two giant Van De Graaf generators in Dr. Frankenstein's laboratory.

The look on your face when she flirled and asked you if you danced was worth sitting through a hundred interviews with the bloodless eggheads who are your usual guests.

Thanks for all the intellectual nourishment.

Cordially,
