TELECOPIER COVER SHEET

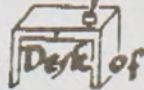

TO: Brian Lamb, CSPAN DATE 3/29/94
~~to PBS News World Report Bldg~~
 FROM: Charles F. Henry - Los Angeles, California

Number of pages to follow: 2

COMMENTS Why is it such an "outrage" that Clinton & other Arkansas business people/professionals/politicians et al quote - "All know each other, work with each other, not work with each other" - unquote!! What a concept - No such happenings in the Washington (next page)

Brian - I sent this last week but the question should be addressed at one of your roundtables Thanx for the service

You give even though I'm pretty ticked At the moment about CSPAN's coverage. ☹️ What happened to the so-called Liberal Media??? Snake pit city!!

arena! ~~Yeah~~, right!! Washington, D.C., the poster-child for "company towns", is the epitome of incestuous relations (family and otherwise) among politicians, lobbyists, media as well as other professionals. Witness that very site you ~~were~~ ^{were} in ~~last~~ week: Ed and ~~Ed~~ ^{Sherrie} Rollins; Steve Roberts / Cokie Roberts / Her brother the lobbyist, etc. Family relations aside - there's Andrea Mitchell (NBC White House Correspondent) and no less than Fed. Chief Alan Greenspan. Should U.S. News have reported that it must ~~recuse~~ from stories about Ed Rollins' troubles in New Jersey; Must ~~that~~ News Magazine in the interest of full disclosure, let every article on National Health include a disclaimer that Steve Roberts is married to Cokie Roberts whose brother is the Boggs who lobbys for the Health Insurance industry. And Can NBC fairly report news on the economy if Andrea Mitchell is its Correspondent? Numerous other such relations exist in and out of Government. Does the fact of these relations bare a conflict of interest therefore unethical. I think not!! Physicians, heal thyself.

Any culpability that the Clintons have will surely be determined by the Special Counsel, Fiske. Any characterizations of "the way they do business in the Ozarks" by media types is disingenuous at best. At worst is a major contributor to the cynism in today's society,
