It would be of great help to your viewers if you could, from time to time, identify the groups who represent the extreme radical right wing of political views. The Heritage Foundation, National Review, ^{American} Enterprise, Washington Times, *New Republic, and others.
_{See note}

The reason for this is the "bending" of truth, the distortion is mostly one-sided and we know it.

The usual dodging is to use the phrase "liberal media".

Indeed there must have been many 'truly good German people who really felt Hitler had a point! Alas, we are spawning David Duke', Newt Gingrich, and on and on.

Indeed, I loved C-span and the idea of a public service was great. But - when we begin to see more and more so-called "experts" from the White House nurtured and sustained, protecting their leaders (Bush & Co.) and not We the People, then our faith in C-Span as a reputable source of knowledge wanes. A full page "Ad" by C-Span owners is a clue - "We the People" can not afford full page ads.

The "private owners" elect to cut off my C-Span on Sunday afternoon - yes cut off - in the middle of a program - for 3-4 hours for a "N.W.T." show! The source? Heritage Foundation! We had better be alerted to the danger - "Accuracy in Media"? Ivin Reed??! Quo Vadis?

* New Republic is now owned by Radical Right wing factions —
Why don't you have the Ferguson
fellow who did the savage piece on Bill Moyers. Taken to task. ~~He~~ is not truthful
and he should be taken to task
for his ugly attack on Bill Moyers — a real hero to those of us who still have a respect for heroes.
The New Republic is trash and is now in the same category
as American Spectator, New Republic,
etc. —
Too bad C-span panders to balance rather than truth,

The opinionated Monarchien,
has a group of "followers"
who seem to espouse what David Duke says bluntly — These people like Charen have been wearing the "glory" of working in the Reagan White House. Wake up — America —
Reagan
