

7:02 am. Mon. 7/6/98. Dear Brian. I have sure enjoyed the last 2 weeks of BOOKNOTES. I was just reading MIRACLES OF MIND, & came across a passage I decided to say outloud to myself, & then the first line of this poem hit. After it was finished, I remembered last night's author reading from his book & I thought, aha. that would be a book to do it to.

Have you ever read a book and said it outloud, word by word. I guess that would take way too long, to try it quite absurd.

But if I had a guy to love who loved books just like me.

An experiment, we'd try and maybe then we'd see.

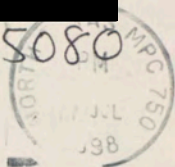

If such a way of reading a good book, it would pay off

Oh minds united just this way, to — a great kickoff?

P.S. Alan says my handwriting is way too small for anyone to want to read it, oh boy. that thought is depressing.

O. BK
R

[REDACTED]
Richardson, TX 75080

Brian Lamb
C-SPAN
400 N. Capital, N.W.
#650

