

Nov. 3, 1997

Dear Mr Lamb,

I am too timid to call in because the sound of my own voice might frighten all of us but I very much wanted to call attention to a speech I happened to hear one morning, recently, at 1:00 a.m., as I heard Mrs Huffington doing exactly what Mr Ed Tschau (sp?) suggested with a streamer above his head "If the people will lead, the Leaders will follow." He was speaking from the Skyscraper Hotel somewhere in Illinois. He teaches at Princeton but grew up in Nebraska.
I was attracted to what he said for several reasons. One he said the early school in Nebraska always

O. Tschau

had several grades in one room but it was there he first heard about "The Man Without a Country".
Since I am in Tennessee I was startled by seeing "Cordova, Tenn", 38018 (?) at the bottom of the screen. Keep wondering why it was there - ?
Obviously I should already have been asleep - That is soundly!

Also he didn't seem to be suggesting a 3rd Party but rather a movement. Did not mention Ross Perot but did say essentially that reform is necessary and it matters not who gets the credit -

It is cold and raining, here, and I don't know how to send a Fax anyway - Mrs Huffington believes the assumption that beautiful women have no brain -