Dear Mr. Lamb -

It was difficult to hear the woman who telephoned you about the death of Mrs Onassis and the loss of decency in the United States.

We have:

lost our ability to tell right from wrong can't decide what is excusable and what is inexcusable

can't distinguish between what is acceptable and what is unacceptable can't tell what is worthwhile and what is worth less.

We have gone wrong somewhere in America and it is very, very distressing.

We shall hope for better days.

Sincerely yours,

My eyes are "playing tricks" so excuse printing.
