C-Span has provided some laughs through its Comment Lines:

("undecided") "President Clinton doesn't play by the rules and has to go." (Kinda didn't play by your rules, this caller, & Kinda doesn't play by my rules that the Constitution required that the President gets 4 years.)

It's a joke & contest out here to count the number of times C-Span's manipulator cuts off people favoring the Pres. but indulges his insulters. But this is just talk-show tactics.

C-Span does unwittingly perform a public service when a viewer called with an insight: When the House Managers strode into the Senate that first day, 13 white men in a tight group with looks of determination that they would get their man, they needed only white hoods in their hands to complete the fearful picture of the Klan.
