Thank you for CSPAN. However, I feel you have not met a large obligation to the viewing public. It's obvious that Governor Bill Clinton is not getting any noticeable or significant coverage which would allow the audience to better judge him and his program. So many times I have tried to catch his talks and find not too much advance notice or very odd times. Other less important issues and choices have been on time after time, ad nauseum. I hate to think that these are deliberate moves. So often you interviewees can't say anything negative about Bush without bashing Clinton. That may be the CW but if isn't helpful in the attempt to criticize his approach to government and size him up.

Most of the network 'anchors' have not only written him off as a possible winner but also seem eager to put him down and then step on him as if he was an insect. I have not seem such degradation before and I can only assume there must be some other motive than fairness involved. They seem so much the pompous asses. Perhaps us common, less fortunate or powerful folk will some day also throw 'them bums out'.

For the sake of the Democracy please try to pull Clinton out of that black-hole of no coverage. Perhaps there is news more exciting, but this is probably one of the most important elections I have seen and I have been around since 1923. We have seen the ease with which certain forces have killed off fledgling candidacies. It's a small miracle that Clinton has reached this time. In itself a fact worthy of review and news.
