Washington Post C-SPAN

I am so upset at your coverage of this morning questions as to whether Clinton should be impeached or not. You have allowed a woman who lied to answer questions on the air while perhaps thousands of people like myself would have loved the opportunity to speak our minds.

I am sick to death of this whole situation, where the Demarcates are allowed to just take over in any way that they can. They do not speak for me nor do they speak for my many friends. We all believe that Clinton is a disgrace to this great nation and if he will not resign, then he should be impeached.

We all know that if it were any of us that lied while under oath to the Grand Jury, we would be behind bars right now. Clinton is a fellow human being, I presume and the same rules that we must live by, should govern him as well. He more so than most as he took an oath to uphold the constitution of the this great land. Not to mention that he knows more than most of us by the mer fact that he is an attorney of this great country. I guess they do teach you to lie in Law school?

The president has been set, that from this day forward, according to all Democrats, it is okay to lie as long as your covering up for your own mistakes and your own butt. Well, I am happy to hear this, that means that from this day forward we can abolish all of our court rooms and save the Tax payer a tone of money in the process. What in the world will we need them for? If I should ever be in any type of trouble, which I have never been, with the law I will quote our President of the United States of America. I will simply say that I can't remember or just out and out lie to save my family and friends from the embracement of my actions. A new standard has been set in our great nation and it is a crying shame. I use to proud to be an American citizen, but that has all changed. I use to be a demarcate and I will never be again. They stand for things that NO ONE SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO GET AWAY WITH.

I am just your average Joe Q citizen, but I am heart broken over the path that this grate nations has taken. How can any one of those fine people, Democrats, that tried everything in their power to convince us that a lie isn't a lie and that a sexual affair isn't an affair look at themselves in the mirror this morning? How can they just go on assuming that everyone in this country believes as they do? It is a crying shame for so few to speak for so many.

It is also sickening how the media can represent them as the only voice, such as your show did this am by allowing five or six against impeachment to your lonely one or two for. To allow a woman on the air that lied to get on for one-second is fair to much time to give her.

I end by saying that I am now ashamed to be called an American. I am ashamed of what Clinton and his wife have done to our White house.

I ask this one last question. When are we, the tax payer, going to stop paying for Hillary to shop at candle stores and see the world on our dime? I have had it with the democrats voicing there endless cry about the 40 million dollars spent to uncover a crime, but they can set back and watch Clinton and his whole family, not to mention all of his friends, see the world at our expense. What is wrong with this picture? Has anyone ever totaled up what this has cost the tax payer? I doubt it, that would make to much sense.
