C-Span:

I watch C-Span because of many reasons. Primarily the programming is very educational and informative, and I have learned more about the functioning of the various branches of our government through the presentations on C-Span. I have been disabled since September, 1979 and I spend many hours at home because I require much rest and recuperation due to my various illnesses which required twenty one (21) hospitalizations during the past ten years.

Thank God my mental capacities have not been impaired and I can absorb much information and awareness of what is transpiring in our world of government today because of the excellent presentation I can observe and digest because of the unbiased policy of C-Span exposed to public scrutiny. I do like to see and hear the pros and cons of issues which arise today. I look forward each day to your program because I can appreciate live exposure much more than just relying on newspapers and various publications, and I am also receiving the most current issues first hand and in an enjoyable manner in the comfort of my living room. I recently requested information regarding your weekly newspaper "C-Span Update". Thank you for the complimentary issue you sent me dated March 19, 1984. I have not sent in my subscription request yet because I have had two deaths in my family recently and have been somewhat occupied with personal problems, but I intend to subscribe in May.

I have a much better insight on current events by watching C-Span daily that I wouldn't receive otherwise by any other source, and in an enjoyable manner. The call-ins portions of your program are very interesting because you receive a sample of the opinions and trends of thought from all sections of our country, and this is very important in forming my point of view and feelings. Because of the call-ins you may see and hear a much broader picture of the various issues discussed and debated.

We need to hear the different points of view so we can honestly arrive at a fair decision, and thus practice one of my favorite sayings "Live and Let Live"

I wish you continued success with your program C-Span, and look forward to many more enjoyable and informative hours.

Sincerely,
